SUPPLEMENT TO THE STANDARD--Sunday, November 27, 1881

LONDON LETTER.
(From Our Own Correspondent.)
THE KILMAINHAM MANIFESTO.

Oct. 20th, 1881.
The progress of the Irish question of our time divides itself primarily into a demand for 'fair rents'—that is, rents that are not excessive in the value of the land, and finally 'no rents at all.' The last demand forms the key note of the celebrated 'Kilmainham Manifesto' supposed to be signed by Charles Stewart Parnell—President, Kilmainham Gaol; A. J. Kettle, hon. sec., Kilmainham Gaol; Michael Davitt, hon. sec., Portland Prison; Thomas Brennan, hon. sec., Kilmainham Gaol; John Dillon, head organizer, Kilmainham Gaol; Thomas Sexton, head organizer, Kilmainham Gaol; Patrick Egan, treasurer, Paris.

Now, without troubling you with the current facts, rant and gossip of 'Intelligence from Ireland' read the text of the manifesto at foot which is intended to breathe the spirit of 'passive resistance,' let me lay before you two representative opinions, one from the Times representing a liberal but vulgar and ungrateful middle and upper class in England, and another from the Echo, a more sympathetic, more abstract-thinking semi-radical but with common place English dissenting lower middle class organ.

The Times, of course, chuckles at the bare notion of 'no rents'—that is, rents that are not excessive in the value of the land, and finally 'no rents at all.' The last demand forms the key note of the celebrated 'Kilmainham Manifesto' supposed to be signed by Charles Stewart Parnell—President, Kilmainham Gaol; A. J. Kettle, hon. sec., Kilmainham Gaol; Michael Davitt, hon. sec., Portland Prison; Thomas Brennan, hon. sec., Kilmainham Gaol; John Dillon, head organizer, Kilmainham Gaol; Thomas Sexton, head organizer, Kilmainham Gaol; Patrick Egan, treasurer, Paris.

It alleges of course to the little antithesis about paying and receiving rents, but forgets to consider the context in which there is in the manifesto a reference to tithes, and also to military force. What the somewhat too closely expressed antithesis seems to have meant was that 'you cannot put in quod for receiving rents, neither can you put in quod for refusing to pay them—you can be evicted and there is an end of it; but if you continue in an organized passive resistance they cannot evict a whole nation.'

By far the calmest and most thoughtful article I have seen on the subject is in the Echo of the 19th. It says:—
"Some years ago an eminent Irishman (if we remember rightly, Mr. Senior) wrote: 'The tenants of Ireland have still too tremendous a move in their power, and that is to stay quietly at home and pay no rent. I believe that if they unitedly adopted a policy of passive resistance, which I do not see how it would be possible for the landlords to combat, it would lead to one of the greatest revolutions that Ireland has ever known. I do not say that it will come, but it is certainly plain on the cards.' But it will be said that this passive resistance, to be successful, must be general, and that Irishmen have never yet shown themselves capable of united action. Those who talk in this way forget the Tithes War, some facts connected with which it may be useful to recall. Fifty years ago, the Protestant clergy were supported by means of a tithe levied on the occupiers of the soil. The people had always paid it unwillingly, and in 1829 they commenced to refuse to pay it at all. The total amount of Ecclesiastical Tithes in Ireland was calculated at £200,000, and in 1831 the arrears had risen to £112,135. In 1832 only some £300,000 was paid the arrears amounting to £112,135. Such was the estimate of Mr. Littleton, then Chief Secretary for Ireland. The clergy were reduced to the greatest straits. Nearly three thousand processes had been issued by the Irish Courts, but they were served at the risk of life. During the year the number of murders, or attempts to murder, amounted in the single Province of Leinster to 103, and the total number of offences throughout the country to 14,000. The Government found it necessary to do something, and having voted £200,000 for the temporary relief of the clergy, reduced for the time being to destitution, the State took over the task of collection. These arrears amounted, as we have said, to £112,135. By the aid of the military and police, after the loss of many lives, and with the assistance of a Coercion Act of unprecedented severity, the Government succeeded in collecting £12,100, and the pittance thus gained had been expended by the end of collection. So things went on until at one time it was calculated that, despite the unparading use of force, there was due a million and a quarter of tithes which the Government could not collect. The country was on the brink of civil war. The King's Speech on February 5, 1833, acknowledged the inefficiency of the measures which had been taken for the pacification of Ireland. 'The disturbances in Ireland,' it ran, 'have greatly increased. A spirit of insubordination and violence has risen to the most fearful height, rendering life and property insecure, defying the authority of the Law, and threatening the most fatal consequences if not promptly and effectually suppressed.' Then, as now, faith was put in force. A Coercion Act was passed in 1833, but it did not meet matters. Then followed the Venue Bill, permitting trials upon indictments to be removed into an adjoining county or to Dublin. But no improvement followed. The number of outrages in the first nine months of 1833 was 5,547; in 1834 they diminished to 5,016; in 1835 they rose to 6,945; in 1836 they were reduced to 5,384; and in 1837 they fell to 3,784. What was the explanation of this sudden fall? The Catholic farmers had no longer to pay for the Protestant priest; the long struggle was at an end, the Irish had won, and the country was once more at peace.

Let me add a pregnant extract from the common news of the day showing that Irishmen are by no means unamenable to reason when fairly and sympathetically dealt with.

Mr. Longworth Daines, Q.C., who has recently inherited extensive estates in county Westmeath, the annual rental of which is over £20,000, made his first collection of rents at Meath yesterday. As it was known that Mr. Daines would make a large abatement, the tenants mustered in hundreds. He announced that he would deduct from the present rents four shillings in the pound, and would himself personally inquire into the existing rents, and reduce them in all cases where he found them unjust, or such that tenants with equity might not be expected to pay. The tenants paid their rents readily, and heartily cheered their landlord.

LATEST FROM CHILE.
GREAT RISING OF THE ARAUCANIAN.

The following telegram addressed to Don Justo Arteaga Alemparte was published on the 15th:—
Cañeta, Nov. 7th.
Great alarm on account of Indians. Quileco, Cañeta and other places on the Lower Frontier in danger. The Imperial Mission and town destroyed. Two thousand Indians at the head of 300 citizens have gone out to meet them. Ninety men are coming from Lebu. Many families are leaving here. Particulars by post.—L. Barboza.

[Valdivia, Nov. 7th.
7.45 p.m.]
According to official communications of the 4th from Tolten, Imperial is believed to have been destroyed and razed by upwards of 2000 Indians. The missionaries and various families have arrived at Tolten with just what they had on their backs. Nothing is known of the telegraphist and his family, but it is supposed that, in common with many other persons, they have sought refuge in the forest. It is reported that some persons have been killed, among others the Sub-delegate Domingo Lagos, and that captives have been carried off. There is much alarm in Tolten. Communication with the north interrupted. The Tolten office can get no reply; the wires are supposed to be cut.—Jose Domingo Astete.

Lebu, Nov. 8, 8.45 p.m.
I arrived today from Valdivia. Imperial completely destroyed by Indians. A body of 2000 attacked the town and burned it. Mission and telegraph office destroyed by fire. Gomez and his family have escaped and they have gone to Tolten. Some loss of life to lament. Telegraph line between Tolten and Tiru badly injured.—E. Olivares.

Arauco, Nov. 7, 8.15 p.m.
The line between Tiru and Tolten has been badly injured by the Indians. From Tiru to the north it is in order. The Indians, 2000 strong, have besieged Tiru and Quileco. Cañeta is also threatened. Jose del C. Ray ardo.

A correspondent writing from Teaguano, under date of the 1st inst. says:—'The Indians are about to make an attack on the new line. This assertion is not founded on mere hearsay, for communications have been received from Tolten, in considerable number, are about to make an irruption on the frontier at a given moment. Various measures have been adopted, and in one of the train of carts which have left today with provisions for Lebu, Quillen and Lautaro, a 'metallurgical' has been sent the last mentioned. Measures are being taken provision all the forts, in order that they may be in a position to withstand a siege. The cavalry is under arms and ready for any emergency. It is reported that the Argentine have driven a lot of Indians over the Andes, and that the latter are making common cause with the Araucanians. The Nefor fort, owing to its distance from the others, is the most exposed. A few days ago the telegraph wire between Lautaro and Pailalon was cut, and it was repaired. It is now reported that the wire is again out in many places.'

The Liberal of the 19th says:—
"We can guarantee the truth of the following particulars: On the 3rd instant a party of Indians 500 strong all armed with lances and some carrying firearms, fell upon fort Quillen about midnight. The diminutive garrison fought gallantly, but was finally compelled to retreat. Some families were taken and carried off their raiding, and finally attacked fort Recabarren, which also fell into their hands. A soldier belonging to the Carabineros de la Frontera was killed by a lance thrust and fifteen Indians bit the dust. At daybreak on the 4th, the rising was known all along the Cautin line. Troops were immediately collected for the defence of fort Lumaco, which was the point most likely to be threatened by the Indians. Indians and soldiers arrived there almost at the same time, and a discharge from the latter put the former to flight, fifty Indians being left on the field. A pursuit was commenced and continued to fort Anibal Pinto, opposite to which the Indians turned and faced their pursuers, killed two soldiers, and then fled again. A general riding appears imminent, and people are abandoning the frontier as fast as they possibly can.

STEEL WIRE
Schneider & Co.
Special Steel Wire of the Creusot Works.

This Wire, the very best ever imported into the River Plate, has been tried against a silver in this market and gave best results. Its price combined with its quality allow Steel Wire to be made cheaper than iron wire fences, both having equal ridding power.
